STUX CAPITAL MANAGEMENT ANNOUNCES NEW MARKETING DIRECTOR

New York, NY – Stux Capital Management announced today that it hired Meredith Genova on July 6 as Director of Marketing and Client Relations. “Meredith will be spearheading our marketing and sales efforts to secure new clients, service existing relationships, and grow our assets under management,” said Ivan Stux, the firm’s President and Chief Investment Officer.

“We are excited to have Meredith join our efforts to market the firm’s analytically disciplined, quantitatively-oriented investment strategies,” said Ivan. “Meredith has experience in a variety of sales and marketing roles in the U.S. and Europe, and provides a deep knowledge of the institutional investment management landscape. She will focus her efforts on the institutional money management and consulting business, as well as subadvisory and manager-of-manager programs.”

Meredith Genova, is a former Director with AllianceBernstein LP where she worked for 12 years in four different business units for the firm, including senior roles in consultant relations, subadvisory services, and wealth management marketing strategy and business services. She was also part of a small team that founded Sanford C. Bernstein & Co., LLC’s London operations.

Ms. Genova said “I am thrilled to have the opportunity to work with Stux. They have a commitment to rigorous, ongoing research, a stable and experienced investment team, and a proven investment record demonstrating consistent risk-controlled returns.”
